

Video of the Week – How low-cost automation is made simple with igus

In this week's video, we see all the lubrication free elements from igus combined into a fully-tailored low cost automation system. From bearings, linear guides and cable management systems to robotlink robotics arms and drylin delta robots, everything is available custom-assembled from stock.

From simple sub-assemblies to complex, fully-automated systems, igus offers local engineering support throughout the UK and Ireland. igus is a global company, with 35 subsidiaries and over 50 distributors, offering worldwide technical support for machine builders wherever their end equipment is installed.

One supplier, one order and one inventory for the complete system, delivered just-in-time.
